13 MUST HAVE'S TO STAY WARM CAMPING IN YOUR RV IN WINTER

NUVENTURETRAVELS.COM

1. MR. BUDDY (BOONDOCKING)

Before we installed a heater in our Casita that runs off of our camper's propane tanks, we used Mr. Buddy when we're boon docking and not plugged into electricity. He runs on the small green propane tanks you can get from Walmart. We place him in the middle of our floor.

2. SPACE HEATER (WITH ELECTRICITY)

Again, before we installed a heater in our Casita, we used a regular space heater for when we're plugged in at a campsite with electricity, so we're not using up lots of green propane bottles from Walmart with Mr. Buddy.

3. RUGS

Make sure you have rugs on your floor to give you extra protection from the thin and frigid floor of the camper. Our Casita Spirit Deluxe has a unique layout that took me a few months to figure out a good rug set up to protect our floor from spills and stains and also provide warmth from the camper's underbelly. We found a natural fiber rug to run down the center of the floor from the bathroom to the bed.

4. FLANNEL SHEETS

We've learned flannel sheets are a must in winter and we love our flannel sheets! They keep us super warm and cozy at night and I love them because they keep your face warm on the pillow all night. I get so cold and uncomfortable if we use our summer sheets because my hair and face get cold from them.

5. EXTRA DOWN COMFORTER

This is a must too! Some nights require extra, extra warmth and an extra down comforter is key! You can get a simple down comforter from Walmart, or... we totally glamp out with this heavy fur blanket we got as a gift from Pottery Barn. Oh, my Lord! It's so soft, heavy, and keeps us warm! Don't judge, we LOVE it:)

6. FLEECE BLANKET

If it's super cold, I have a fleece blanket like this one I put under our flannel sheets and right over me to sleep. Fleece keeps me nice and cozy and is even better than flannel in my opinion!

7. MERINO WOOL PAJAMAS

When we're living out of the camper in winter temperatures, you bet I wear both the top and bottom as my base layer 24/7. I use these both to sleep in and under my sweaters and jeans during the day. They keep me warm and toasty.

8. HAT

You may think I'm crazy, but when you're boon docking in winter, it feels like you're tent camping in winter. I wear this knit hat on my head all night to keep my head and ears warm while I'm sleeping.

9. FINGERLESS GLOVES

I love these wool fingerless gloves with a mitten cover, because they're so practical! They keep my hands warm, but I can turn the pages of a book, use my cell phone, take photos with my camera, work on the computer. I recommend these gloves:)

10. BUFF AS NECKWARMER

One of our essential items we always carry in the winter or summer is a Buff. In the winter, we use it as a ear warmer, you can tie it into a hat, and at night I use it as a neck warmer to keep my neck warm. If my neck's cold, I'm cold! I totally recommend a Buff because it's so light and you can use it year round in so many ways!

11. WOOL SOCKS

A whole category of gear for me is for my feet. If my feet are freezing, I can't fall asleep. To make sure my feet stay toasty, I pack two or three pairs of the heavy duty wool socks with me. I use two pairs to wear during the day and a specific pair I wear in the camper and at night while I'm sleeping.

12. SLIPPERS

Along with wool socks, I always have slippers that I slide on while in the camper. For me, it's really important to have slippers that both support my arch and are thick on the bottom with rubber soles keeping my feet protected from the cold floor of the camper. I got these while I was pregnant and my feet were changing and love them!

13. MICROWAVABLE SLIPPERS

If you tend to camp with electricity and have a microwave, get these! I found these and they are now on my Christmas list!:) I won't be able to use them all the time, because we don't have a microwave and we tend to boon dock a lot but I gotta have them:)
